MSA

More than 10 years ago, the Australian beef industry developed and established a grading system called Meat Standards Australia (MSA), a beef eating-quality program that labels each beef primal and sub-primal with a guaranteed grade and recommended cooking method to identify eating quality according to consumer perceptions. MSA is a voluntary grading program that accurately predicts the eating quality of Australian beef, enabling suppliers to deliver consistent quality beef to consumers.

HUNTER GOLD, HUNTER SIGNATURE, HUNTER RESERVE:

Nestled in the foothills of the World Heritage listed Barrington Tops National Park, with its uncontained water and pristine air, it is the natural place to produce the purest of Australian beef. The first European settlers recognized the Upper regions of the Hunter Valley for its undulating hills and fertile pastures, as the price place to produce a consistently high standard meat product that ultimately achieves the finest taste, tenderness and flavour, which is packed under our exclusive to Good Food Distributors Hunter Gold Brand, Hunter Signature & Hunter Reserve Brands

Throughout the long term agreements and commitment with local cattle producers and a strict purchasing criteria, in particular the Angus and Hereford Breeds, has enabled Good Food Distributors to achieve the highest standard in quality. Our grain fed cattle are also selected from approved feedlots ensuring consistency in supply and quality.

The same is said for our Hunter New England Lamb with long term relationships with growers and producers, guaranteeing consistent eating quality year in, year out.

Good Food Distributors, as part of its commitment to the quality of "Hunter" brand breed, also runs an accredited MSA (Meat Standards Australia) program guaranteeing the customer premium quality beef with distinctive tenderness and superb meat flavour. We use Wintham, Scone & Kurri Kurri Abattoirs for processing of Hunter Branded products

PARTNERS IN PRODUCE

Chef Jean Marc Pollet knows a thing or two about fresh, quality produce. After all, he was at the vanguard of a movement to have the Hunter Valley recognised as a world-class food and wine destination. Arriving at the Hunter in 1986, after a stint at Serge Dansereau's legendary Kables restaurant in Sydney, Jean Marc quickly developed a reputation for outstanding cuisine.

Jean Marc is now back in the Valley as Executive Chef at Mercure Resort Hunter Valley Gardens, where he has created an innovative menu that features quality meat and fresh local ingredients.

As he has moved between restaurants, one thing has remained constant – Jean Marc's insistence on the highest quality produce. That's why he chooses Good Food Distributors as his supplier. This relationship has lasted more than 22 years and shows no sign of abating. Jean Marc works with his founding owner of Good Food, Anthony, and the team to source the products he needs for his award-winning cuisine. Brands such as the Hunter Gold, Signature & Reserve underpin much of his meat menu, and he chooses to do so for the personal service, as well as the consistency and reliability of the produce. Along with the ability to source the quantity required for large functions, from the Hunter.

This is just one example of the importance of one-on-one customer relationships. Although Good Food Distributors has grown into a large, competitive, privately-owned company, our commitment to offering personalised service and locally sourced product has never changed. Chefs such as Jean Marc, Robert Molines, Cory Campbell & Rodney Scales and many more rely on Good Food to offer quality produce, competitive prices and, most of all, uphold their reputation.

San Pellegrino Mineral Water has been produced for over 600 years. Certain rare geological conditions can produce naturally carbonated water; often the carbonation can be attributed to volcanic activity. San Pellegrino was one of the first bottled Natural Carbonated waters.

Thanks to a 15 year journey deep underground through rock strata, Acqua Panna exhibits unaltered purity together with a particular balanced formula that doesn't dominate but heightens the taste of fine food. Minerals are absorbed naturally as water flows through geological formulations to its source (the level and relative proportions of minerals and trace elements at the point of emergence from the source is constant).

- Exceptionally pure – Sourced from the Bay of Plenty New Zealand where there is almost no commercial or industrial activity and less than one person per square kilometer.
- The source is officially recognized as New Zealand's deepest high quality artesian aquifer.
- Naturally filtered through dense ignimbrite rock for up to 300 years, so no chemical cleaning, processing or sterilization is needed.
- Unique clean and subtle taste – Low in sodium and bicarbonate and high in silica, offering almost imperceptible flavor and a gently, silky texture on the palate.
- Conceived for the dining table, its sole purpose is to hydrate and refresh without dominating the palate. The perfect complement to the finest food and wine.
- The only mineral water in the world to be CarboNZero certified – Antipodes leaves absolutely no carbon footprint from its source to any dining table in the world.
- Sustainable producer – Appointed as member of the UN Carbon Neutral Network of companies.
- Most awarded water at the prestigious Berkeley Springs International Water Tasting – the world's leading mineral water competition.
